

In August 2012, Katharina Kurzrock, Simon Walter and Sebastian Huellen left the museum to collect some fresh material from France for their labs. Henri Persat kindly provided some help and hints for good spots within the Rhone drainage.

Henri with Simon discussing what they found in the Rhone river.

High mollusk densities make collecting easy.