

September 2012. Katharina Kurzrock and Matthias Geiger headed towards the South with the MfN minibus to reach the headwaters of the Soca River in Slovenia to collect mollusk and mayfly samples for the FREDIE project.

Afterwards they also visited Hungary and met with Zoltan Feher to discuss about the cooperation.

Quite luxurious what the Berlin museum offers as a field car!

While searching in the Bosnian River, although there are no mollusks here, we could not resist

Guess what we found in the Balaton?
